Most on council want end to assessments

By Jonathan Richie
OSHKOSH HERALD

The debate over special assessments at city hall continues, but it now appears that most current Common Council members are in favor of fully or partially eliminating these assessments that help pay for road projects.

When construction projects are planned, they are paid for by the city and the property owner by way of a special as-essment, usually added to the owner's tax bill and paid through a billing plan.

these costs with all but one member supporting eliminating special assessments.

The special assessment covers property owners' portion of the costs to fix the road, sidewalk and utilities beneath the road such as water and sewer pipes. Last week, council members had a lengthy discussion about how to handle

In Oshkosh, special assessments have been a topic of debate for years and City Manager Mark Rohloff has said the final decision lies with the council. Some options include eliminating city assessments entirely and have all taxpayers cover the costs or to partially eliminate those assessments by adding a floor or a ceiling to assessments which would mean the city covers the first $5,000 of the assessments or caps the assessments at $20,000.

This was all discussed at a recent budget workshop at city hall as staff members pre-

Menominee Park's Pratt Trail closed for needed upgrade

Black bear exhibit construction continues

By Jonathan Richie
OSHKOSH HERALD

Construction began last week on Pratt Trail, which meanders throughout Menominee Park, on a project that is estimated to be finished by Zooloween Boo next month.

The Menominee Park Zoo will remain open during road work until its scheduled closing day Sept. 24. Parking is available near the Lake Fly Cafe on Siewert Trail along Merritt Avenue while Pratt construction progresses.

Road work includes replacing stormwater infrastructure along with curb and gutter repair. There will be new asphalt along the complete length of Pratt Trail from Merritt Avenue to Siewert Trail. The pedestrian trails crossing Pratt will be closed during the project.

There is another ongoing construction project at the zoo for a new black bear and fox exhibit that was approved by the city last year. There were no public funds allocated to the project as it was a gift to the park but the city will be responsible for maintenance costs.

The Oshkosh Area Community Foundation secured donations to fund the $1.4 million project. The council, along with the foundation and CR Meyer, entered into an agreement similar to those used to construct the otter and eagle exhibits at the zoo.

New elementary school project underway

Menominee Elementary to open doors in 2024

By Jonathan Richie
OSHKOSH HERALD

With the Webster Stanley school demolished, Oshkosh officials from the school district and city hall launched the building of a new elementary school with an Aug. 22 groundbreaking ceremony.

Menominee Elementary will combine three communities into one with Merrill, Washington and Webster Stanley elementary schools on the former site of Webster Stanley Elementary and Middle School.

District Superintendent Bryan Davis said the new school is possible with a partnership with the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin and is the “namesake of this amazing school.” The new school will pay tribute to the rich history of the tribe.

“This new school is going to be really good for the Oshkosh community and the Menominee tribe wishes you well in the coming years with this new facility,” said David Grignon, Menominee tribal historic preservation officer. “The Menominee people will always remember this – that you remembered us.”

Oshkosh sits on ceded territory of the Menominee Tribe, which lived on Lake Winnebago, in the Oshkosh area named for their former chief and throughout northeast Wisconsin.

Davis called the groundbreaking a “milestone moment” and another piece of the roadmap to the future the district has outlined in a long-range facilities plan.

He said the vision for the school came out of the district’s 2017 facilities study. It is possible through the public approval of a 2020 capital spending referendum. It is the second school groundbreaking in as many years with Vel Phillips Middle School opening last Friday to students on the first day of school.

“The new elementary school will give an opportunity to experience learning like never before,” Davis said, “allowing for collaboration and inclusion and enhancing technology.”

OASD Board of Education president Beth Wyman said the new school represents the district’s commitment to students’ well-being and future success. She also thanked the community.

“You’ve entrusted our district to do what is best for our students and our community and your support allows us to do just that,” Wyman said.

“As the centerpiece of the neighborhood it will be a place where community and fellowship flourish.”

Beth Galeazzi, future principal at Menominee Elementary School, was Webster Stanley Elementary principal for 10 years and said she is happy the three schools will be combined in one.

“This groundbreaking represents more than just the start of construction. It signifies the beginning of an incredible opportunity, one where we will be bringing the amazing school families of Washington, Merrill and Webster together,” Galeazzi said.

She has worked with teachers from all three schools and noted their unwavering commitment to student achievement and success.

“Teachers will bring their expertise and their passion to create an environment where every child feels valued and empowered. Our students will in turn be active participants in shaping the culture and the traditions of our new school,” Galeazzi said.

Hmong vendors have anchored farmers markets

Oshkosh Herald

Since its opening at Riverside Park in the summer of 1994 and through its moves downtown, the Oshkosh Saturday Farmers Market has benefited from diversity in both its offerings and vendors. Generations of native Hmong and Hmong American entrepreneurs have been a consistent part of that mix.

Market manager Michelle Schmidt-Schultz said Hmong vendors are a vital part of the Saturday market and have not gotten much recognition for their contributions. They include 15 agricultural vendors that represent one-third of that segment, along with eight food vendors and two selling handmade crafts.

“The Hmong vendors of the Oshkosh Farmers Market provide a steady stream of produce that has fueled the popularity of the farmers market in Oshkosh,” she said. “Farmers who are able to bring fresh and locally grown food to the market provide a valuable and affordable supply of nutritious food to the community.” Schmidt-Schultz said Dow Yang has been a staple at the market for many years, growing fresh produce and beautiful floral bouquets for customers.

“She often works long hours by herself in one of her three garden areas south of Oshkosh in the Town of Black Wolf,” she said.

Yang, like many area Hmong, arrived in the late 1970s. She began gardening in 1989, working for another grower near Neenah and has grown her business to the point that she now farms more than 5 acres.

“Her family assists her at the market in displaying and selling her produce and flowers,” Schmidt-Schultz said. “We are privileged to have her as one of our vendors.”

Market board chairman Michael Cooney added, “Every time I visit one of our farm vendors I am left with a deep appreciation of how hard they work and how many hours it takes to produce the vegetables and flowers that they bring to the market every Saturday.”

Reduction of county board committees will be put to vote

Oshkosh Herald

The Winnebago County Board of Supervisors will vote later this month on whether to reduce the number of committees under the county board’s purview.

The county authorized creation of a special structure review task force in February to evaluate the existing committees and develop suggestions for improvement.

The board currently has 12 standing committees and three boards under the county executive’s purview. The committees have slots for 70 supervisor members, excluding legislative, committee on committees, and minor committees, commissions and boards.

The committees do the preliminary work of drafting resolutions and ordinances, reviewing budget requests and assisting in policy development. Each committee’s recommendations are then sent to the full 36-member board for a vote.

The task force conferred with other counties and solicited the opinion of the state Legislative Counsel and county corporation counsel. It also surveyed supervisors.

Supervisor Jacob Floam said the task force wanted to create a committee structure that was unique to Winnebago County.

“Essentially, what we were trying to do is create a structure that works for us,” he said. “So we talked to a bunch of different people and reached out to different counties.”

The task force’s recommendation is to reduce the number of committees to 10. The supervisor member slots in the committees would be reduced to 46. Floam said none of the committees is being eliminated.

The remaining committees would include Public Works, Judiciary and Public Safety, Finance and Administration, Natural Resources, Health and Human Services, Land Conservation, Aviation, Legislative, Planning and Zoning, and Solid Waste.

Architectural styles of Oshkosh homes: Colonial Revival

Colonial Revival architecture examples in Oshkosh include the Schriber house (top photo) and Wall residence on Algoma Boulevard.

By Kristopher Ulrich
OSHKOSH LANDMARKS COMMISSION

Pause for a moment, close your eyes, and think of a big old house. What do you see?

If I were asked the same question, chances are my brain would put together a colonial home of some sorts. And it's no wonder when you consider that 40% of homes built between 1910-1930 were made in the Colonial Revival style. What does that mean though?

This article is the third entry into our series on architectural styles. Our goal is to educate readers on the specific type of homes that they live in, so that we can think of our houses as more than the “character home” catchall that they are so often labeled.

“Colonial” encompasses a vast array of features. True colonial homes were built from 1600-1820 or so, and primarily showcased on the East Coast where the European colonists were settling. During this period, notable styles included Postmedieval English; Dutch, French, and Spanish Colonial; Georgian; Federal; and Early Classical Revival. Oshkosh examples come into the picture during the golden age of Colonial Revival from 1880-1950.

Spurred on by the United States Centennial in 1876, architects drew inspiration from the roots of our country to design homes for the next 100 years. With their front doors accentuated with a decorative pediment supported with quintessential columns, symmetrically balanced facade with a center door and double-hung windows to the side, and grand fireplaces typically on one or both side facades, Colonial Revival homes are iconic to us.

Most Colonial Revival homes in the country drew inspiration from their Georgian and Federal cousins on the coast, but in Oshkosh we see a disproportionate amount of homes giving a nod to the Dutch Colonial movement with notable gambrel roofs.

While writing this I can vividly picture several of these homes on or just off Murdock between Bowen and the lake. In fact, this area north and south of Murdock on streets like Graber, White Swan, Doemel, etc. are ripe with samples of late Colonial Revival, particularly the second-story overhang variant.

There's something so richly 1950s black-and-white, wholesome family TV about these homes that makes me think “My Three Sons” or “Leave it to Beaver.” Fast-forward several decades right up to today and picture homes being developed west of town in Ruschfield or off Shepard in the Town of Algoma and you can see examples of New Traditional Colonial Revival homes among the many Millennium Mansions.

These draw design inspiration from their Postmedieval English and Colonial Revival precursors on the outside, but with attached garages as big as, if not bigger, than the homes themselves.

As a northsider, I often find myself driving down Algoma to get to the businesses along Oshkosh Avenue or the frontage roads. There are plenty of examples of great homes on this stretch, but I particularly like the Thomas R. Wall residence.

Any UWO student will recognize it as the neat old home that stands in the shadow of Taylor Hall that is presently used as the multicultural education center building. This house is a prime example of Colonial Revival featuring a hipped roof with a full-width porch.

Another terrific example caught a great deal of media attention in 2015-2016 when it was picked up and moved down the street. That's right, the Schriber house that once stood on the spot of the Paine parking lot is another textbook brick Colonial Revival.

Both of those homes were designed by famed Oshkosh architect William Waters, and at one time each was under threat of demolition.

The “Save the Wall House” committee had monthly meetings at the house until Chancellor Wells came to the university and put an end to any talk of demolition.

The Schriber house could have ended in demolition as well had a great deal of work not been done to find the right buyer and home mover for the job.

There are other homes in Oshkosh that were saved from demolition by moving them during the great UWO expansion in the 1960s as well. The grand white colonial revival home at 2511 Vinland St. was one of them.

It was built in 1925 by Emil Steiger, originally located on 100 Elmwood St., and moved all the way to Vinland past Oshkosh North High School to make way for what is today Fletcher Hall.

Do you live in a Colonial home of some variety? What is the neatest feature of the facade of your home? Share this article with your friends and your favorite realtor, and start a discussion about how the knowledge about your home style enriches your appreciation and the value of your house.

If you're not certain about what kind of home you have, consider starting your journey by searching for information on the Wisconsin State Historical Society website.

A simple search can result in information about your home's style, important dates in its history, names of people who resided there, and so much more.

Error leads to surprise billing for some UWO graduates

Wisconsin Public Radio

A group of University of Wisconsin Oshkosh graduates say they shouldn't have to repay more than $55,000 in total charges they received months after graduation due to a campus billing error.

The university says the former students should have known they were undercharged and it's obligated to collect.

Stuart Kuzik and seven others graduated from UW Oshkosh's executive Master of Business Administration in January. Kuzik told Wisconsin Public Radio that on June 1, he got a letter stating he was undercharged during his final term and he owed the university $7,903.78. He said the other six graduates in his cohort were told the same thing.

"We're not students anymore," Kuzik said. "I paid for this with student loan money. I'm not a student. I can't get a student loan for this."

Kuzik's surprise bill came months after a campus financial aid director told him the university actually owed him a refund of nearly $4,000.

Before graduating in January, he said his online accounts showed he had a negative credit balance of $3,715.78. Kuzik shared emails from a campus financial aid director stating he had a zero balance. The emails offered a guide for applying for the refund.

"It's not the way a business would act," Kuzik said. "And this is the place that we're going to, to learn business."

The former students sent a letter to Chancellor Andrew Leavitt in June asking the school to not hold them financially responsible for the university's billing error. Kuzik said they haven't gotten a response.

UW Oshkosh chief of staff Alex Hummel said the university regrets its mistake. He said the former students were accidentally charged tuition rates for conventional graduate programs, but "it's clear, when you go to the executive MBA website for UW Oshkosh, it's actually a special tuition rate."

Hummel said all students at the university, whether they are undergraduate or graduate students, are asked to do "a financial sort of declaration" that they understand the tuition rates and what they will be charged.

Once the administration was alerted to the billing discrepancy, Hummel said, it contacted MBA program managers who had conversations with the former students about the problem.

"You know, no matter what the conditions are out there, we've got to do our due diligence, and we have an obligation to make sure that we're collecting the monies for the cost of a program," Hummel said. "So, that's really the spirit with which we reached out and regrettably had to inform them of this error."

Kuzik and the others were told they could arrange six-month repayment plans with the university. Otherwise, the entire $7,903.78 was due on July 10.

Matt Nelson, Charles Blaich and Steven San Filippo were veteran members of the department who were on duty on 9/11. Plans to Build Theme Park in Oshkosh Stalled: For almost two years, plans to build Carousel Theme Park in Oshkosh have been at a standstill. With investors unable to find funding at a reasonable rate, all construction has come to a grinding halt. The plan is to locate the park northeast of the junction of Highway 41 and 20th Avenue. Marketing studies project 350,00-400,00 attendees are possible the first year which includes the EAA Fly-In. The study showed that within a 50-mile radius, there are 987,000 people to draw from and over 2 million people within a two-hour drive of this city. It is estimated the park would employ 230 seasonal employees with 14-16 full time. 16 rides at the park will include a Sky Ride, a Pirate Ship ride, and a Crazy Kar (new type of bumper car). A multipurpose building will be erected to handle large family or company picnics and musical entertainment. A Cinema 180 will project films on a quarter of a dome above the audience. Other attractions will include a petting zoo, puppet shows, arcades and more. Admission prices are estimated to be $7 for adults, $5 children under 12 years, children 2 years and younger are free. Developers are asking the Common council to approve a municipal bond issue authorizing $7 million for construction.

A psychological thriller which KIRKUS Reviews describes as 'engrossing tale of deception with a worthy payoff.'

Set in an opulent background of the privileged few, it shows humanity at its lowest and at its most human element. Unlike books of the same genre, readers know who the serpent is from the beginning. The crux is how each of the three protagonists - a famous writer, his personal chauffeur and the unwitting biracial sex worker - manipulate each other. Like a game of chess, a charade, a cat and mouse game. A cliff hanger to the very last page, it keeps the readers guessing what happens next: who wins, who lives, and who dies.

Metalcore powerhouse Amity Affliction to play arena

By Chase Millam
OSHKOSH HERALD

Australian metalcore band The Amity Affliction is coming to the Oshkosh Arena on Sept. 27 as a part of the Monsters of Oz tour with Parkway Drive. The show will also feature fellow Australian groups Northlane and Make Them Suffer.

The group was formed in 2003 and has been a mainstay in the genre ever since. Four of their albums reached No. 1 on the Australian Recording Industry Association charts.

The band's latest record "Not Without My Ghosts" was released May 12. Founding member and co-lead vocalist Ahren Stringer is loving the fan reception for the new album.

"It's been awesome, probably the best response since 'Let the Ocean Take Me' and we totally understand why," Stringer said. "We are just really happy everyone likes it."

According to Stringer, the creative process for the new release differed massively from previous records.

"We produced this one on our own and spent the least amount of time in a studio we ever have," he said. "It was for the most part more relaxed and we got to control the whole process. One of many benefits of being on an independent label that has full trust in the artist."

The group is known for their heavy sound and melodic choruses. Stringer said that when developing the record, they focused on going in a heavier direction.

"The hooks and melodies are just something that will always be part of the band as that's the way I write them and what comes natural to me," he said. "But we talk about the direction from a long way out and Dan writes the music to fit that."

The band brings a ton of energy to each live performance. Stringer says maintaining that energy is the easy part of the tour.

"Touring gets very monotonous, and the show is all we look forward to the majority of the time," he said. "So, you get to put a whole day of energy into the show. We of course also feed off the crowd in a big way and it's always a better show when they are really giving it back to us."

The band has been featured in the classic punk festival Vans Warped Tour in 2013, 2015 and 2018. Stringer said he has a love/hate relationship with the former event.

"Glad it happened but we're old now and a tour that long might kill us," he said. "But for the fans I think it's so iconic and legendary. Maybe there could be a shorter version or something. It had a huge impact on music and culture."

Apart from Parkway Drive, the tour will also feature Northlane and Make Them Suffer.

"They're all legends, it's going to be a sick tour," Stringer said. "We can't wait."

The Monsters of Oz tour begins Sunday and continues through Oct. 8.

"We've grown a lot and learned a lot over the years and just matured in general," Stringer said. "I think the music speaks for itself."

Emergency planning for natural disasters set to get extra focus

To help Wisconsinites be ready for emergencies, September Preparedness Month through the work of ReadyWisconsin encourages everyone to spend time developing a disaster plan.

“Disasters can strike at any time,” said Emergency Management Administrator Greg Engle. “While many emergencies can happen with little notice, the best way to prepare is to develop an emergency plan, know what threats can affect your area, and know what resources are available to help you stay informed during a disaster.”

Preparedness Month is recognized every September across the country as part of the Federal Emergency Management Agency’s Ready Campaign. This year’s campaign is focusing on preparing older adults for disasters.

ReadyWisconsin offers resources to help older adults with the process of emergency planning at readywisconsin.wi.gov.

During September, ReadyWisconsin encourages everyone to prepare by creating or updating a disaster plan.

This should include what to do in the event an emergency or disaster forces you to remain at home for several days or you are forced to leave your home.

English professor interviewed for Ed Gein documentary

By Shane Nyman
UW OSHKOSH TODAY

Your next true-crime fascination just might feature a supporting role from a member of the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh faculty.

Bill Gillard, an English professor on the Fox Cities campus, is among a group of academics, historians and other experts interviewed for an upcoming documentary series on the infamous Wisconsin killer Ed Gein.

“Psycho: The Lost Tapes of Ed Gein” is a four-episode series premiering Sept. 17 on MGM+.

While the series is centered on Gein, who in the late 1950s confessed to killing two people and digging up bodies from graveyards in the small town of Plainfield, it also explores his impact on popular culture. Among the works of art inspired by the grisly true story that played out about 60 miles west of Oshkosh is Robert Bloch’s novel Psycho.

That book—published in 1959 and written in the small town of Weyauwega—was the foundation for Alfred Hitchcock’s masterpiece film of the same name.

Titans sporting events add alcohol options

Oshkosh Herald

Alcohol sales have returned to J. J. Keller Field at Titan Stadium and Kolf Sports Center at the University of Wisconsin with a new beer garden at football games and for seven home games for the men and women’s basketball teams.

The beer garden will be at the north end of the stadium while the location of the beer garden at Kolf is to be determined. Fox River Brewing Co. will be the official Though born in Illinois, Bloch grew up in Milwaukee. He moved with his wife to her hometown of Weyauwega in 1953. Over his long career he published more than 400 stories, 20 novels and dozens of scripts for movies and TV.

“Bloch’s really interesting because he had a whole career before World War II writing about external horrors, monsters from beyond, monsters under the bed and in the closet,” Gillard said. “After World War II, Bloch became much more introspective and writing about how the real horrors aren’t outside of us, the real horrors are inside of people and what individual humans are capable of.

“And so when the Ed Gein story came out and he was sitting in Weyauwega with not a lot to do, he started thinking about a guy like Ed Gein. I mean this is Wisconsin in the 1950s, this is a small town and everybody knew Ed Gein and he knew everybody. But he was this monster. That was the thing that drew Block to writing Psycho.”

The central character in Bloch’s novel was Norman Bates, a man who at first blush seems to be an unremarkable oper-supplier, with Salted Watermelon Key Lime Seltzer and Titan Gold Ale being offered.

After the seasons conclude, the Athletics Department will conduct an operational analysis and determine if expansion to other sports is feasible.

Alcohol sales will begin two hours before game time when the gates open and end at the beginning of the third quarter, and must be consumed in the beer garden.

ator of a roadside motel. But as the story unfolds it becomes clear there’s a dark side to Bates—who famously was portrayed by Anthony Perkins in Hitchcock’s film.

A film crew from Canada led by director and executive producer James Buddy Day came to Wisconsin in the spring and interviewed Gillard at the Brumder Mansion in Milwaukee.

“This is a gigantic piece of American cultural history that came from Weyauwega,” Gillard said. “It’s most definitely a Wisconsin story, not just from the inspiration from Ed Gein but the composition itself. This wasn’t some Hollywood screenplay writer swooping in to grab this.

“Norman Bates is completely a creation of Robert Bloch, but the whole circumstance was inspired by the question of ‘How could this happen?’—especially in small town, especially in Wisconsin, in 1957.”

Park trail

Parks director Ray Maurer has stated the exhibit fits into the zoo’s master plan put together in 2014. Construction should be completed this fall and open in the spring.

“It’s been an exhibit that’s been requested by the community for years,” Maurer told the council last year.

City Manager Mark Rohloff mentioned the construction recently and noted Pratt Trail will be open by the time of Zooloween Boo on Oct. 21. There are two more Brews on the Bay beer garden events scheduled for tonight (Sept. 6) and Sept. 20 that have been moved to the Leach Amphitheater.

Snooze at the Zoo will be held this Saturday and Sunday. The event, sponsored by the Oshkosh Area Community Foundation, allows families to camp outside with dinner on Saturday and breakfast served Sunday morning. The movie “Family Camp” will be shown Saturday night.

Tickets for Zooloween Boo go on sale Sept. 29. for the Oct. 21 event that will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Road assessments

pare the 2024 budget, which includes several capital improvement plan (CIP) projects such as road reconstruction. People living on those roads could receive special assessment estimates next year.

Rohloff said he was looking for guidance on what type of ordinance or resolution could be drawn up regarding special assessments. Each of the six council members and Mayor Matt Mugerauer gave their opinions and all but Paul Esslinger said they were in favor of eliminating special assessments across the board.

Then they discussed the budget repercussions that decision could have. Mugerauer said if special assessments were eliminated the city would be taking on more debt.

“We’re not lowering our debt,” Mugerauer said. “Our debt is going up over a decade.”

He said other things could be used like a wheel tax to cover the costs if special assessments are eliminated.

There were two main plans discussed last week by the council. The first was partial elimination of the special assessments that would include a $5,000 floor and the property owner would not pay for the sidewalk – a plan that would add an extra $2.5 million to the 2024 budget, Rohloff estimated. The other option would add about $5 million to next year’s budget and would eliminate special assessments.

Public Works director James Rabe said one of next year’s proposed projects is on Waugoo Avenue. He said those lots are smaller, so he anticipates most assessments being between $7,000 and $10,000, compared to a few years ago when assessments on West Ninth Street were averaging around $20,000.

The council discussed capping special assessments, but members noted that would help out the wealthiest of property owners if assessments were limited to $20,000 instead of giving everyone help with the floor, potentially at $5,000.

Council member Mike Ford said something should be done with these assessments to protect people who want to buy homes or stay in their current homes. He said special assessments can price people out of ownership.

Ford noted that Oshkosh is just one of more than 140 municipalities in Wisconsin that use special assessments. The difference in Oshkosh, Ford said, is that the city is consistently in the top five of per capita costs for special assessments.

The cost per square foot of frontage assessed last year was $136 – a lot with 100 feet of frontage would be assessed for about $13,000, 50 feet of frontage would be around $7,000 and 150 feet would be close to $20,000.

The council discussed raising the tax levy to help cover these costs, which could be anywhere between a 4% and 6% increase.

Special assessments approved earlier this summer ranged from $10,000 to $18,000, most being around $12,000 to $13,000. If the $5,000 floor was in place, the average special assessment would have been between $7,000 and $8,000.

During the conversation about having a $5,000 floor, Rohloff said this decision could upset property owners that received special assessments this year.

“That argument doesn’t hold water,” council member Joe Stephenson said. “Government changes rules every other day.”

Council member Karl Buelow said the current council is not responsible for decisions made by previous councils.

Rohloff said he would review his notes from the meeting and have something prepared for the council in terms of options for eliminating special assessments partially or entirely. He would also work on a budget that includes the tax levy increase the council disc used.

Expenditures and revenue

Earlier in the meeting, finance director Russ Van Gompel gave an overview of the 2023 general fund revenue and expenditure projections. He said the city is on track with revenues and expenditures this year.

“We’re looking pretty good on the revenue side,” he said, with the city set to have more than $52 million in revenues this year.

Van Gompel explained there’s a healthy amount of money in the general fund balance.

“If you wanted to use it for a one-time thing, you could consider it,” he said.

Rohloff also gave some council members an update on increased shared revenue from the state the city is anticipating for next year. Shared revenue has gone up from $9.6 million to $11.5 million.

Shared revenue has remained stagnant for years, with Rohloff noting this amount is similar to what the city was receiving in 1992. All shared revenue funds will go into the general fund in 2024.

The Oshkosh Youth Choir is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year.

Oshkosh Youth Choir marking 30 years

The Oshkosh Youth Choir is celebrating its 30th anniversary with fall and spring performances around Oshkosh, along with tours starting in June with performances at Carnegie Hall in New York followed by the organization's first overseas tour with stops in London and Paris.

The Youth Choir had its first performance in fall 1993 under the direction of founder Carl Chapman, then director of choral activities at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh.

The original intent behind the choir was to create vocal performance opportunities for youth beyond those offered by both the public and private schools in the area. As an offshoot of the Oshkosh Chamber Singers, the original group was composed of students in fourth through eighth grades.

In May 1995 a second group called the Choristers was formed to accommodate the growth and development of less experienced singers to prepare for the more advanced repertoire.

Current director Jennifer Jensen was hired by the parent advisory board for the 2003-04 school year, making this her 20th anniversary. Under Jensen's tenure, the Youth Choir has grown from a single choir with 26 students to almost 100 singers across three choirs.

The group sang at the National Children's Choral Festival on stage at Carnegie Hall in 2010 and will participate once again this June. The fall program includes several holiday songs that will be presented in story form. The 2024 spring program will include some of the biggest music hits of all time in a continuous show that will weave all three choirs in and out of the program.

Auditions were held for all three choirs from 5 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at South Park Middle School for students going into grades 3 through 12. More information is available by contacting musiccepiaphany@yahoo.com or 920-235-8313.

Lakeside Packaging to hold fundraising event

Lakeside Packaging Plus, a nonprofit organization serving residents with disabilities, will be having its first fundraising event at 5 p.m. Sept. 13 at the Oshkosh Convention Center. Lakeside Talent Takeover includes dinner, show, raffles and a silent auction. Tickets are $45.

This event will highlight associates, giving them a chance to spotlight their talents, with 10 different performancs. Monty the Magician will perform magic tricks throughout the event as the emcee.

The goal is to raise a minimum of $75,000 to fund programs that will provide associates the opportunity to explore potential talents and general operations, including a new art program at its Neenah and Oshkosh locations.

Knights' Bauer brings energy, big plays to field

By Tim Froberg
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Dominic Bauer likes to think big, and who can blame him? No word better fits him on the gridiron.

Bauer is a big target at 6-foot-3, 190 pounds, a big play waiting to happen and a big part of the Lourdes Academy football team.

Bauer led the Knights in receptions (33), receiving yards (520) and yards per catch (15.8) last season while tying for the team lead in receiving touchdowns (five). The playmaking wide receiver is off to a strong start in 2023 with six catches for 88 yards and two touchdowns in the Knights' first two games.

He is a third-year varsity player who was a two-way starter in 2022, and the Knights are looking to limit Bauer's defensive snaps this season and make him a focal point of their passing game.

"Dominic has grown a lot as a player over the course of his career," said Lourdes coach Kevin Wopat. "He has loads of potential. When he plays to his talent, he's a dominant player offensively. He works hard to be a great wide receiver and has improved as a blocker as he's gotten older."

Bauer has been a wide receiver since the day he entered the Lourdes' program after playing on the defensive line his first few years of tackle football in middle school.

"I fell in love with playing wide receiver," he said. "It's so much fun. People like to chirp and if you don't talk and just show them how good you are and play your game – it speaks for itself."

Bauer is a huge fan of Buffalo Bills wide-out Stefon Diggs and tries to bring the same kind of juice to his game.

Senior spotlight

"I love his energy – his passion for the game," Bauer said. "He doesn't just do it for the money. He loves the game."

Bauer learned a valuable lesson last season when he didn't start the Knights' season opener at wide receiver.

"I still got some reps at receiver that game, but it kind of set me off because I thought I was going to start," Bauer said. "That was my fault. I wasn't doing the job I was supposed to be doing. It turned out to be a good thing. It made me aware that it wasn't just about me. I got full-time reps every game after that."

Bauer has more than just soft hands and ideal size for a receiver. He's athletic and has the speed to stretch the field.

"I honestly see myself as a playmaker – someone who can make big-time plays – and love the energy that comes with the position," Bauer said. "There's a lot more to it than people realize. You have to be a good blocker and be unselfish. It's not always about you catching the ball. Sometimes, you need to just run your route to open things up for someone else."

Bauer is a three-sport athlete at Lourdes. He was a basketball starter last season, averaging 3.6 points, 4.2 rebounds and 2.2 assists, while draining 10 three-pointers. He was also considered to be a "big" in basketball, routinely playing inside the lane and often guarding the opponent's top interior player.

"I see myself as an energy player – whether I'm on the court, the football field or on the bench," said Bauer. "I feel that everyone

Valley Christian routs Tigersharks to improve to 2-0

By Dustin Riese
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Valley Christian is making this 8-player football look pretty easy.

Led by a ferocious defense that had two sacks with constant pressure on the quarterback and an offense built around speed and physicality, the Warriors moved to 2-0 with an impressive 43-8 win over Princeton/Green Lake at Xavier Middle School on Thursday night.

Head coach Daniel Birr loves what he has seen from his team so far this season.

“The kids played an outstanding all around game,” Birr said. “There were times in the first quarter where I didn’t think we were aggressive enough and that did cost a little bit. However, once we started to settle in and let our physicality take over we started to look like the team we know we can be.”

After rushing for nearly 300 yards in the opener, the Warriors were back at it against the Tigersharks. Valley Christian piled up 258 yards on 46 carries in the game.

Jackson Martin led the way with 125 yards on 11 carries, while Dennis Thur and Derek Wallace each contributed to the rushing attack picking up rushing touchdowns.

While the offense was on point early, it was the defense that struggled a bit throughout the first half as they allowed the Tigersharks to stay close with an early touchdown.

“We didn’t come out as aggressive as we expected and we needed to adjust quickly,” Birr said. “Football is a game of adjustments and the ones that can adjust the quickest will come out on top. When it comes to our team, we have to be patient with our players as for most of them this is their first time playing football let alone the 8-player game.”

A pair of scores late in the second quarter broke the game open for the Warriors.

The first came on a 53-yard screen pass to Josiah Lehman, who took advantage of some big open-field blocks and dashed to the end zone. Lehman had all three receptions for the Warriors, finishing with 76 yards.

“Coach called a great play and we felt we could catch them off guard with a screen,” Lehman said. “I got to give a ton of credit to the blockers up front. Their effort to clear the way made things easy for me and it allowed me to get into the open field to get us in the endzone.”

Less than a minute later, the Warriors pounced on a fumbled kickoff and took over inside the 20-yard line.

Martin, who earlier in the game had a 34-yard scoring run, would cash in the turnover on a 4-yard touchdown run on fourth down to send the Warriors into halftime with a 29-8 lead.

Valley Christian was unable to add to its lead in the third quarter but extended the advantage with a pair of touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Dennis Thur got the first score on a 7-yard run, while Ian Kuhlow scored from four yards out for the final points in the Warriors first home game of the season.

“To wear this jersey for my senior season means the world to me,” Lehman said. “This may not be our field on campus, but this was home for us tonight and to win this game in front of our friends and family is very special and something all of us are going to remember.”

Wallace added 70 yards on 15 carries on the ground, while Warrior defense surrendered just 83 yards of total offense in the game.

Birr understands what it takes to build a program and likes the direction the kids are going two games into the season.

“No one is expecting us to be perfect right away, but we are in a good spot right now,” Birr said. “The offense is playing well, the defense is playing physical and we are playing a smart brand of football right now. Now we just need to build off of each performance, work on the things we need to work on and strive to get better each game.”

Powerhouse Kaukauna too much for Spartans

Kaukauna proved to be a little too strong for Oshkosh North as the Spartans were dealt a 35-0 loss by the Ghosts in Fox Valley Association action on Thursday.

The Spartans finished with 151 yards of total offense in the game. Jamare Scott led the ground attack with 47 yards on 13 carries, while quarterback Bryce Ott finished with 32 yards on the ground, while also completing 5-of-13 passes for 45 yards.

Liam Murphy and Roy Freeman each finished with nine tackles, while Antonio Thompson added seven. Jaykown Jones also had an interception in the game.

“Our kids played extremely tough, and never gave up,” Spartans’ head coach Luke Ott commented. “We were completely out sized, but fought on every play. We as coaches couldn’t have asked for a better effort.”

Hammen leads West

Hailey Hammen shot a 52 at Oshkosh Country Club to lead Oshkosh West, but the Wildcats fell to Appleton North.

The Lightning carded a 197 while West finished with a score of 243.

Kennedy Footit added a 57 for West.

Mistakes haunt Wildcats in loss to Kimberly

By Steve Clark
OSHKOSH HERALD

There were some mistakes typical of a team still finding itself and there were some struggles that happen when playing one of the premiere programs in the state.

But there were also some big plays and bright spots for Oshkosh West in a 34-10 loss to Kimberly on Thursday night.

And that's what first-year head coach Joe Ray and his staff are looking to build on.

"We didn't execute very well tonight and that's something that kids can learn from," Ray said. "They saw that they can compete with them when they do things right, but its just a matter of not making those mistakes and beating ourselves."

"When we made the mistakes (the first two weeks) we could still win just because we are more talented. But when we play a team that has equal talent or better talent than us, we have to execute."

The Wildcats defense made two huge plays in the first quarter to generate some early momentum and keep the Papermakers off the scoreboard.

The first came on the third play of the game when Demarion Williams picked off a Kimberly pass and returned it to the Papermakers' 35-yard line.

"That stop early on is what did it for us. It got that momentum going," senior lineman Garth Martell said. "It's all about momentum. That big pick by Demar, that was huge and when you get that ball rolling all we need to do is keep it going."

West converted a third-and-15 on the ensuing drive on a pass from Chase Brandl to Drew Blair but were unable to get much closer leading to a 34-yard field goal by Jeevan Ambati that gave West the lead.

"We talked about that we needed some things to go our way and it did right away," Ray said. "I would have liked to go score a touchdown there. When we get an opportunity like that we have to take advantage of it."

Kimberly responded to West taking the lead with a march down the field, overcoming a holding penalty on a goal-to-go situation to reach the Wildcat 1-yard line.

But on fourth down from just outside the end zone, the middle of the West defense stood strong and stuffed Kimberly quarterback Carson Pendleton's sneak attempt to force a turnover on downs.

"That felt great," said Martell, one of the players who led the surge on the goal line. "That's been my thing all season. I'll do my thing on the normal plays and when it gets to the goal line, it's time to eat."

West didn't generate one first down coming out of the shadow of their end zone, but a first down sack set the Wildcats back eventually forcing a punt. And this time, with less than a minute to go in the opening quarter, Kimberly was able to work its way into the end zone to take the lead.

The Wildcats were unable to pick up a first down in the second quarter and Kimberly took advantage to break the game open.

The Papermakers scored 20 points in the second quarter to take a 27-3 lead at halftime. Kimberly took advantage of an errant punt snap by West for one touchdown, while a Wildcat penalty on a missed field goal gave Kimberly a second chance and it converted the kick.

"The mistakes we made tonight were more us being undisciplined," Ray said. "When we are executing well and doing our jobs, things go well for us. When we get undisciplined or lack technique or anything, that's when things go wrong."

Kimberly added a touchdown midway through the fourth quarter but it was West that notched the final points.

Sparked by an 18-yard run for a first down by Ambati on a fake punt, West put together a touchdown drive. Brandl had a 23-yard scramble to pick up a chunk of yards, while Jaiden Fronczak took a pitch around the right side for a 17-yard scoring run diving the final couple of yards to the end zone.

“That was big for us,” Ray said. “Every moment is a learning opportunity and we’re trying to change the culture. I think we are getting that confidence and getting that belief that we can do this and have success at times.”

Kimberly outgained West 400-166 in total offense and held the Wildcats to nine first downs for the game. Brandl was the team’s leading rusher with 63 yards on 15 carries, while also completing 10-of-20 passes – five of which went to Blair, who finished with 44 yards receiving. Alex Dyken, Zach Bartels and Caleb Christiansen were the leading tacklers for the Wildcats. “I think we did a lot of things well to-night, but it’s just the simple mistakes that we need to go and fix and the intensity in practice needs to pick up,” Martell said. “Otherwise, I think we are on the path to do big things.”

feeds off my energy. If people don't feed off my energy, I know I'm doing something wrong.

"If a team doesn't have an energy, it's just not as fun. You can always tell when a team is just out there, going through the motions."

Bauer also participated in track and field for the first time, doing the long jump, 400-meter run and 1,600-meter relay. He will likely do track again this spring and remain a three-sport athlete.

"I did it because I thought the running and jumping would help for football, and it really did," he said. "I love being a three-sport athlete. I'd play three sports in college if they'd let me."

Bauer plans to attend college next fall and hopefully play football. He's considering business and marine biology as possible majors.

"Playing college ball is my main goal," Bauer said. "Some people try and play college football and their bodies break down because of how overwhelming it is. If I get the chance, I'll have to stay determined and just stick with it."

In the meantime, Bauer is focusing on helping a solid Lourdes team improve on last season's 6-5 record and fourth-place 4-3 record in the Trailways Conference.

"We want to take back the Trailways and go deep into the playoffs," Bauer said. "I think this team can go far. What I really like about this team is its determination to win and that none of us really complain like we did last year. We're excited about the opportunity to go out there and prove everyone wrong."

Harold Malnory

Harold “Hal” Malnory, passed away in his home at the age of 77 on Wednesday August 30, 2023 surrounded by family and his dog Hattie after a year long battle with pancreatic cancer. He was born on April 8,, 1946 to Berton and Millie Malnory in Tacoma, WA.

Shortly after, the family moved to Oshkosh, WI where he spent most of his life.

Hal was a beloved husband, father, grandfather, and great grandfather. He was an avid sports fan and accomplished athlete beginning in grade school. Throughout his high school years, he excelled in football, baseball, and basketball. Upon graduating from Oshkosh High School in 1964, he received an offer to tryout for the Milwaukee Braves. Ultimately, Hal decided to enlist in the U.S. Navy where he was stationed in Long Beach, CA. He served four years and made two trips to Vietnam on the USS Talladega.

After returning from Vietnam, Hal continued his love of sports playing fast pitch softball, most notably Oregon Clothing and Tommy’s Angels. At times, you could find him in the outfield but most often as the catcher. They won several ISC State Championships and in 1976, Tommy’s Angels took 4th in the ISC World Tournament in Long Beach, CA. After many years playing under the lights, he decided to hang up his cleats. He was inducted into the Oshkosh Rec Department Hall of Fame in 1999.

Hal truly found his calling when he entered the Winnebago County Sheriff’s department in 1975. He was a member of the SWAT team, loved competitive shooting, and loved being part of the summer boat patrol. He cherished not only the job, but his coworkers. Hal retired a Lieutenant in 2002. In his spare time, he enjoyed following local sports teams, spending time with his well-loved pets, golfing, and fishing on any of his favorite lakes.

For a short while, Hal lived in Arizona where he loved to golf and truly had an opportunity to take on his role as grandpa, or to be better known by his grandkids as Bukka. Even when living in Arizona, he continued to tape and watch every Brewer game and continued to root on the Pack. As fate would have it, he returned to Wisconsin in May of 2019.

Hal was well-loved and respected by so many. Some may say the party started when he arrived, a true comedian; people loved his sense of humor. Perhaps his best trait was his loyalty and role as protector, always looking out for his family and friends. He was fearless, a touch guy all the way until the end. Gone much too soon. Rest in peace Hal, Bukka. We will meet you on the baseball diamond in heaven.

Hal is survived by his wife of 24 years, Lisa, his two children Tammy Doemel and Todd Malnory, his grandchildren Jordan (Steve) Schug and Laura (Garrick) Morgan, his great grandchildren Adalyn and Elliot Schug and Henry Morgan, his mother and father-in-law Jan and Larry DuBoise along with many cousins and close friends and his sweet pup Hattie. Hal was preceded in death by his parents Berton and Mildred Malnory.

A Celebration of Life will be held on Thursday September 7 at 3:00pm with Police and Military Honors. Visitation will be from 11:00am until time of service at Konrad-Behlman Funeral Home 100 Lake Pointe Dr., Oshkosh, WI. A memorial will be established in Hal’s name.

Connie Norton

Constance Lynne Norton, age 70, passed away on Sunday, August 27, 2023, from a battle of pancreatic cancer. She was surrounded by loved ones to say goodbye.

Connie was born on October 28, 1952, in Oshkosh, Wisconsin to the late Carl and Florence Dinger on October 28, 1952.

She was proud of her nearly 30-year career as a Scheduler for Mercy Medical Center.

Connie married the love of her life, Donald Norton, on March 18, 2005, in Oshkosh. Together with their blended family they shared over 30 years together.

Connie was a bright, enthusiastic, loving person. Her magic touch enhanced all her favorite hobbies and interests. A favorite pastime of the Dinger ladies is to garden. She was proud of her gardens at her home and cabin, took pictures to showcase their splendor, and would have friends and family over to see their beauty. She loved to go their cabin in Red Granite, where she would garden, relax, watch movies, and "pig out" on incredible homemade dinners, baked goods and snacks. She enjoyed collections of pigs and chef figurines, and also decorating for the Fall season. One of our dearest memories was how the family home was decorated inside and out and top to bottom with Fall décor. It was her favorite season, and it was a beautiful display every year. She loved music and going to concerts. She loved to travel to Georgia to see her daughter and son-in-law. She cherished her talks with friends and family and liked to chitchat on the phone for at least an hour at a time. Her stories were animated and lively, full of personality to paint a picture, just like her genuine spirit. She was a joy to be around.

She is survived by husband, Donald Norton; three children Eric (Amy) Nowak of Minnesota, Sarah (Chris) Kiel of Georgia, and Angie (Shawn) Burwell of Wisconsin; three sisters, Sally Counts, Cheryl (Jere) Lain, and Karla (Fred) Westphal; four grandchildren, Greysen, Bayler, Eleanor and Augustus; several nephews, nieces, extended family and friends, and her special lifetime dear friendship with Shari (Ron) Bieber. Connie was preceded in death by her parents, beloved brother Steven Dinger, and brother-in-law Thomas Counts.

A visitation and memorial service for Connie will be held from 11:00 to 1 p.m. with a seated service at 12 p.m. Saturday, September 9, 2023, in Konrad Behlman Funeral Home, 100 Lake Pointe Drive, Oshkosh, WI 54904.

In lieu of flowers please consider a donation to the Lustgarten Foundation, Lustgarten.org to further pancreatic cancer medical research.

*Do not cry for me, for I am always near.
Look up at the stars, and see that twinkle was meant for you.
When you hear the birds sing, I am whispering you a song.
And when the flowers dance and sway, it is me sending my love.
For I may be gone and not forgotten, I am nothing more than a smile away.
You are loved and cherished, and we all look forward to seeing you again. Rest in Peace Dear Mother, Wife, Sister, Aunt and Friend.*

A Dinosaur Named SUE

How did Sue find this fossil?
“I was pretty lucky,” remembers Sue. “But it does take more than just luck,” she admits. Sue Hendrickson also knew the right kind of rock to explore.

Fossil Hunters Know Rocks
Different layers of rocks were formed at different times in the earth’s history. This chart, called a stratigraphic column, can help you discover in which kinds of rocks T. rex fossils could be found.

Time	Rock Layer	Description
Paleocene 56 to 65 million years ago		Mudstone—flood plain deposit, contains mammal fossils
Cretaceous 66 to 144 million years ago		Sandstone—river deposit
		Shale—deep ocean deposit, contains ammonites, mosasaurs and plesiosaurs
Jurassic 145 to 199 million years ago		Chalk—ocean deposit, contains marine reptiles
Triassic 200 to 251 million years ago		Sandstone—river deposit
Paleozoic 252 to 541 million years ago		Limestone—shallow ocean deposit, contains shells

• Color layers that could include T. rex fossils BLUE.

• Color layers that do not contain T. rex fossils because they were deposited under an ocean YELLOW.

In North America, Tyrannosaurus rex lived between 66 to 90 million years ago. They did not have wings to fly or fins to swim.

For amazing facts about Sue, visit: fieldmuseum.org/blog/sue-t-rex

Think I look good now? You should have seen me about 67 million years ago!

Standards Link: Earth Science: Students know that fossils provide evidence about the animal that lived long ago.

Where would you look?
Apply what you learned from the stratigraphic column to figure out where in this map you would look for dinosaur fossils.

Extra! Extra!

Adjective ABCs
Look through the newspaper and find 5 or more adjectives that would describe the T. rex called Sue. Put the adjectives in ABC order.

Standards Link: Spelling: Put words in alphabetic order.

Over millions of years, layers of rock build up, burying—and preserving—fossils.

The Importance of Sue
The first T. rex specimen was found in 1900. Since then, only a handful of _____ that are more than half complete have been discovered. Sue’s skeleton is 90 percent complete. Sue is the largest, most _____, and best preserved T. rex ever found.

Most of Sue’s bones are in excellent condition and have a high _____ of surface detail. Sixty-seven million years after her death, it is still possible to see fine _____ showing where _____, tendons and other soft tissues rested against, or attached to, the bone.

Sue swiped some words out of this story. Can you figure out where each one belongs?
